THE CONFERENCE DISCUSSES A NET FORM OF MISSION WORK.

be Established for Women who Shall Devote Themselves to the Care of the Sick, the Serrowing, and the Sinful,

The Methodist General Conference, Bishop Hurst in the chair, voted yesterday to estab lish an order of deaconesses, whose duties are to be very similar to those of the nuns of the Roman Catholic Church, though their personal freedom is not to be so restricted. The proposition came before the Conference in the form of a report from the Committee on Missions, presented on Monday last by Dr. J. M. Thoburn Chairman of the committee. The report cites the success of a similar plan in Germany, to show what may be done in this country, and states that a home for women who are desconesses in all but name has already been established in Chicago. The qualifications and duties of the deaconesses are defined in the following paragraphs, which are to be inserted in the Discipline of the Church:

The duties of the deaconesses are to minister to the poor, visit the sick, pray with the dying, care for the orphan, seek the wandering, comfort the sorrowing, save the similar, and, relinquishing wholly all other pursuits, devote themselves, in a general way, to such forms of Christian labor as may be suited to their abilities.

No yow shall be exacted from any deaconess, and any one of their number shall be at liberty to relinquish her position as a deaconness at any time.

In every annual Conference within which deaconesses may be employed, a Conference located of nine mismbers, at least three of whom shall be woman, shall be ap-

When working singly each deaconess shall be under the direction of the pastor of the church with which she is connected. When associated together in a home all the members of the home shall be subor, nate to and directed by the superintendent placed in charge.

The appropriate placing the heavy order un-all the members of the home shall be sabor "sate to and directed by the superintendent placed in charge.

The paragraphs placing the new order under control of annual Conference Boards encountered much opposition in which Dr. J. M. Buckley figured prominently.

Delegate J. D. Walsh of Newport, Ky., offered as a substitute for the objectionable paragraphs a provision that the deaconesses be governed in the same manner as local preachers. This was voted down, but another amendment by Dr. L. C. Queal was adopted. It provides that no woman shall be appointed deaconess except on the recommendation of the quarterly Conference of which she is a member, and that the Conference Boards shall report annually the names of the deaconesses liconsed and the work accomplished. Then the report of the committee, as thus amended, was approved.

consed and the work accomplished. Then the report of the committee, as thus amended, was approved.

Dr. Theburn thinks that the order will become neeful and popular, and that homes for deaconesses will soon be built in all the large cities of the United States.

All of the session that remained after the approval of the pian to create an order of deaconesses was consumed in the discussion of the report of a Commission appointed at the General Conference of 1884, to consider questions that had arisen in relation to lay and ministerial representation. The report of the Commission, the substance of which has already appeared in The Sun, offers a new basis of representation, and proposes that the lay delocates shall equal the ministerial delegates in number. As expiained by Dr. Bentley, this plan would admit 118 additional lay delegates, thus providing seats for the women delegates, thus providing seats for the women delegates, who are expected to sit in the next General Conference, and disposing of the objection that the admission of women would crowd men out.

Dr. L. C. Queai of Auburn, N, Y., offered as a substitute for the Commission's report a resolution creating a new Commission to consider during the ensuing quadrennium the question of equalizing representation on the present basis, and to report to the next General Conference.

This proposition was strenuously opposed.

tion of equalizing representation on the present basis, and to report to the next General Conferences.

This proposition was strenuously opposed, on the ground that the subject had already been eight years in the hands of Commissions, and ought to have Deen thoroughly considered by this time.

Dr. J. M. Buckley, however, advocated Dr. Oual's substitute. Already, he said, the lay delegates, under the possibilities of a vote by orders, whelded a power sufficient to defeat any measure that might come before the General Conference. It had so happened that the change of a single layman's vote on the question of admitting women delegates would have defeated the will of the Conference as expressed by a majority of 37 of the whole body. To increase the number of lay representatives without at the same time modifying the privilege of a vote by orders might produce disastrous results. Besides, under the plan proposed, the body would become unwieldy. As at present constituted, the Conference consisted of 468 delegates. The plan under consideration would add 113, making a total of 581. But the increase since the last General Conference had been 11 per cent., or, in numbers, sixty-four, At the same rate of increase, therefore, the General Conference of 1892 would be composed of 645 delegates.

It seemed to ex-Lieut.-Gov. Cumbach of Indiana that the laymen, who paid all the expenses of the Church, ought to have, for that reason if for no other, at least equal representation with the ministers.

The debate went on at great length, and several new suggestions were offered. One solution proposed was that the laymen and ministers should sit as separate houses, but this came too late, under the rules, to be put in the eral new suggestions were onered. One solu-tion proposed was that the laymen and minis-ters should sit as separate houses, but this came too late, under the rules, to be put in the form of a motion.

When the question was finally ordered to a manding a vote by area and noes.

It took an hour to record and count the votes on Dr. Queal's substitute. The result was: Ministers, 201 ares, 74 noes; laymen, 35 ayes, 114 noes, 14 will thus be seen that the laymen defeated the proposition to postpone the question for another four years, and before a vote could be reached on the report of the Commission the Conference adjourned, but it is pretty clear that the ministers will defeat it, and so the final decision of the question will be deferred eight years at least, for another Commission could not be appointed until 1892, and could not report until 1895. That would make sixteen years spent on this one problem. The Methodist General Conference does nothing hastily.

The Methodist General nothing hastily.

When the Conference adjourned it was at a deadlock on the question of the equalization of reprosentation. The ministers, smarting under the check applied by the laymen, threat-under the check applied by the laymen, threatdeadlock on the question of the equalization of representation. The ministers, smarting under the check applied by the laymen, threatened to resort to a similar measure this morning when the vote on the commission's report comes up. The laymen were alarmed at the stormy outlook and held a caucus at St. Luke's Church in Forty-first street last night to devise a plan of campaign. It was proposed to surrender the right to demand a vote by orders in exchange for the equalization of representation, but this plan found little favor. There was also talk of an ultimate division of the Conference into two houses. Everybody admitted that the laymen would be defeated to-day, and the only glean of hope was found in the proposition of Dr. Kynett, new before the Conference, for the appointment of a commission to revise the constitution of the Church. The laymen hope to get their case before this commission, and will therefore layor Dr. Kynett's resolution. The laymen adjourned last night without other action than the appointment of a commission to consider the situation and report before this morning's session of the Conference.

The Committee on Hinerancy decided yesterday afternoon to recommend the increase of the bastoral term from three years to four without conditions. There were two reports from the salt-committee. The majority were in favor of extending the term to five years, and the minority were for the three years term, with the addition of one year in certain contingencies. Dr. Buckley, as Chalirman of the whole committee, will present the report in favor of the four years' term this morning.

Inter-State Commerce Decision.

WASHINGTON, May 18 .-- A decision has been filed by the Inter-State Commission in the case of Martin & Co. of Denver against the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific Railway companies. The complaint was against the rates charged from San Francisco to Denver upon a mixed car load of dried fruit and raisins shipped in August, 1887, presenting the question among others of a greater charge for the shorter haul from San Francisco to Denver than for the longer haul to Kansas City over the same line. The orinion urgently recombends the immediate adoption of some universal rule upon the subject of mixed car loads under various classification rules, which shall put an end to the amoryances and to the irregularities which now exist. The conclusion of the commission is that no adequate ground mowexists upon which a greater charge for the shorter haul to Denver than for the longer haul to Kansas City can now be justified. The Canadian Pacific Company's competition having been taken out of the case by the arrangement of Jan. 16, in respect to the Missouri River business, and the great distance, being near 600 miles, between Denver and Kansas City, are considerations which are mentioned by the Commission in stating its conclusions. shipped in August, 1887, presenting the ques-

PRESERVERIAN UNION.

The Two Bedles, North and South, to Meet In Centennial Celebration.
PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—The Presbyterian General Assembly resumed its sessions in Horticultural Hall at 9 this morning. A number of social invitations were accepted with the thanks of the General Assembly. The question for which the General Assembly has been upon the tiptoe of expectancy came up in the afternoon when the Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Smith of Baltimore, Chairman of the Committee of Conference with the Presbyterian Church of the United States (the General Assembly South), mounted the platform and began to read the report of that committee. This report involves the momentous question of the union of the two General Assemblies of the Church in America, which the advocates of unity are apparently striving to see accomplished in this centennial year of the American Presbyterian Church. Dr. Smith had not proceeded far in the reading of the report when he was interrupted by the Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson of Chicago, who moved that it be rick Johnson of Chicago, who moved that it be made the special order for Friday of next week, May 25. This motion precipitated a discussion, lasting more than an hour, but was finally adopted.

The report substantially stated that the Conference committees of the two General Assemblies had met in Louisville on Dec. 14.1887. A series of formal inquiries had been submitted by the Southern to the Northern Assembly. In regard to the colored people, it was stated that the Southern Church had adopted the policy of entire independence from them. Another noint was in regard to the powers and responsibilities of the Eclesiastical Board, another treated of the Calvinistic articles of faith, and another was in regard to the question of the spirituality of the Church. The answer was that the Northern Church was not in tavor of setting the colored ceople off in a separate organization, that there is no question of doctrine or polity agitating the Northern churches, and in regard to spirituality, it was responded that the General Assembly is formed with the duty of the reformation of manners and the promotion of truth, charity, and holiness. The union is favored, consummated with the fullest confidence in the Christian character and doctrinal soundness of both.

BALTIMORE, May 18.—In the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church today, the Rev. Dr. Strickter of the Committee on Conference on Organic Union, read the report of that body, which gives the correspondence of the two branches of the committee at Louisville in November last. As soon as the report was read a motion was made to take no action.

The Rev. Mr. Need objected. He said that an analytic of the southern Presbyterion Church to action. made the special order for Friday of next action.

The Rev. Mr. Neal objected. He said that an invitation had been received from the Preabyterians of the Northern Assembly to join them on Thursday next, and it was not courteous to treat that invitation in such a manner as was proposed. He was in favor of anything that is courteous, fair, and Christike. It was not the proper way for Christians to act, to cut off all avonu for agreement between the two bodies. oddles.
The Rev. Mr. Brooks moved to refer the re-bodies.

The Rev. Mr. Brooks moved to refer the report to a special committee, when Judgo Heiskell rose and said that, while he had profound respect for the fathers of the Church who opposed dramic union, it will be secomplished, and those who do not get out of the way of the ear when it starts will be run over. They believed in the oneness of the Presbyterian Church, and it should be one. He had carried his musket for four years, and all he got for it was a hole in his bosom and a Mexican dollar, and he cherished both. But this question will have to be met, and it should not be avoided at any time. He thought the matter should be referred to a special committee.

The question was finally referred to the Committee on Bills and Overtures.

The Committee on the Centennial Celebration presented a report accepting the invitation to join the celebration, and expressing the gratification of the Assembly at the many expressions of good feeling which have been received from Philadelphia. The report was adopted, and the Foreign Correspondence Committee instructed to notify the Committee of the Northern Assembly of the action of this body.

BOOK MAKING EXTRAORDINARY. A Publishers' Syndicate that Promises to Play the Muchlef. A syndicate of publishers has perfected arrangements that are calculated practically to give a monopoly of the business of repro-ducing here European books. The names of the members of the syndicate are kept secret at present, but it is expected that they will soon be known by the stupendous surprises they propose to flash upon their business rivals. The syndicate has made a three years' contract with a company controlling a process for reproducing books for all that they can do in that time, and the company is fitting up an expensive plant for the carrying out of the work at 18 Reade street. No other work is to be done here during that time for any other persons than those belonging to the syndicate, and it is understood that if the publishers had had their way about it they would have made the contract for ten years instead of three.

It is asserted that fac-simile plates ready for rinting can be made by the company at a cost of 3% cents a square inch, and could be profitably furnished as low as I cent a square inch. One of the company, Mr. Penfold, says; "The amount of matter that a compositor would charge $6 for setting, we can furnish, blocked and ready for the press, at a profit for 50 one of the company, Mr. Pentoid, says; The amount of matter that a compositor would charge 56 for setting, we can furnish, blocked and ready for the press, at a profit for 50 cents."

In a general way the process is understood by many, but the especial features that make it valuable are secrets carefully guarded by the three gentlemen who constitute the Hollis Phototype Company. As far as they are willing to make it known, it is as follows:

The instant that a book for reproduction is put into their hands it is ripped apart and its pages are put in fixed places before half a dozen cameras simultaneously operated. No time is lost in focussing, and the making of negatives of the pages is a matter of only a few moments. Each negative is transferred to a transparent rubber film, which is stripped from the glass and used to print from, after which it is laid away, like a sheet of paper, and can be kept indefinitely. The printing is done upon heavy sheets of gelatine, from one-thirty-second to one-sixteenth of an inch thick, prepared with bichromate of potash and other chemicals. Ten pages are thus reproduced at once upon each sheet of gelatine, and, as there is space on the roof for kying out at once forty of these sheets in their printing frames, one hour of sunshine will give 400 pages printed on the gelatine. The portions of the gelatine upon which the light has not acted are easily washed out with brushes and warm water, leaving the letters, pictures, or other photographed images in bold rollef, and only six to eight hours are required to dry the plates perfectly. The plates thus prepared are blocked to type height, and it is affirmed that as many as 20,000 clear impressions can be made from them, if they are not touched by water or subjected to excessive heat. Their relief is equal to that of ordinary type, at least, and she outlines are sharp. Engravers are ready to carefully overlook and repair each plate should a spot appear in which the printing has been defective, but so cheap is the work of reproduction t

The body of Henry Benson, who committed suicide Wednesday night in Ludlow street jall, where he was confined to await extradition for swindling the people of the city of Mexico with bogus Patti concert tickets, was buried yester-day in the Jewish cemetery at Union Fields, Long Island. On Wednesday night Mr. Peter Mitchell, Benson's counsel, received a letter from Benson in which he was requested "in the event of my death" to purchase a small plot of ground, "that I may not occupy a nameless pauper's grave," and to erect a plain headstone inscribed with the name and the date of death. Later the same night, which was the night of Benson's suicide, Mr. Mitchell received a sec-

Later the same night, which was the night of Benson's suicide, Mr. Mitchell received a second note thanking him for his services, and, in the light of the subsequent suicide, evidently intended as a fareweil. Mr. Mitchell bought a plot in Union Fields, and accompanied the body yesterday as far as the ferry. His two clerks, in the only carriage which followed the hearse, went to the cemetery and saw the body properly interred. The Coroner's certificate gives Bensen's name as George Clinchwood, but that was only one of the swindler's aliases. The coffin plate was inscribed "Heary Ridgewood Benson."

Several weeks befere his death Benson assigned his property, amounting to $4,000 in money and about $2,000 worth of jeweiry, to Mr. Mitchell in payment for his legal services past and prospective. His watch and chain, as well as his trunk and his clothes, he instructed should be given to his valet, John Relly, and requested Mr. Mitchell to have a suitable inscription engraved on the watch. Kelly is now in the Tombs charged with conspiracy to aid lienson to escape from Ludlow street jail. He and Bertine whe helped him were indicted yesterday. The indictment centains twenty-eight counts.

A cousin of Benson, named Holland, made a demand upon Mr. Mitchell on Thursday for Benson's property as the next of kin but Mr. Mitchell informed him that if there had been anything for the heir it would have gone to a half brother of Benson living in England.

Manhattan Club, 96 Fifth Avenue, 1 May 18, 1888.

To the Editor of The Sun-Sir: The suicide of Henry Benson, the Patti ticket swindler, recalls to my mind some interesting anecdotes. Benson was a pupil of Chopin and Prudent in Paris. When a child at the Grand Hotel in Paris, when a child at the Grand Hotel in Paris, when a child at the Grand Hotel in Paris, be sat down at the piane and played so exquisitely, that the Director-General of the Grand Opera, being present, offered to pay for his musical education. But that was net necessary, as Benson's father, a stationer of the highest respectability in Paris, amply provided for him. Benson never needed meney for the necessities) or aven luxuries of life, for during his father's lifetime and after a very generous allowance yearly was received by Benson—something like 12,500 frances annually; and Benson was not married. Henry Benson, for that was his right name, could not keep straight to save his life, but hugely enjoyed the excitement of a criminal life. He wrete and spoke fluently English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, and Russian, and with exact grammatical precision. He was a friend (before he developed his criminal propensities) of such musical celebrities as Liszt, Patti, Scalchi, and others equally famous. Benson was also an excellent vecalist and Al theoretical musical, and at one time he did the musical work of the Figaro of Paris. Truly he was the most highly educated criminal of the century. ## CROOKED WORK IN ALBANS.

A Brooklyn Bill with a "Steal" in It in the Governor's Hands that Never Passed. From the Standard-Union.

ALBANY, May 18 .- In examining the list of bills in the hands of the Governor, issued today, the Standard-Union correspondent discovered among them the bill providing for the purchase of the Old Dutch Church property for municipal purposes. As this bill is the one that Senator O'Connor killed in the Senate by amending it, its presence in the list was pre-that Senator O'Connor killed in the Senate by amending it, its presence in the list was presumptive evidence that there has been more crooked work in connection with the bill, which has already had a checkored career. The bill, as originally introduced by Mr. Tallmadge, provided that within thirty days the city should buy the property at a cost not exceeding $450,000. Mr. Tallmadge made it sixty days, and altered it so that it was permissive instead of mandatory. In this way it went through the Assembly.

Then senator O'Connor caught it, and thinking $450,000 a big price for land that a year before had only brought $175,000, sent it to the Citles Committee so that he might investigate. Instead of going to the committee, the bill was rut by some one of the clerks in the bills on the order of third reading, and just as it was passing Senator O'Connor caught it again, and denounced it as a steal. Then it was that Michael J. Dady appeared and took an interest in the bill, and tried to get it passed. Senator O'Connor had it reported from the committee, annended so that the outside price should be $300,000. It was passed the last day of the session in the Senate as amended, but too late to get to the Assembly for concurrence, and therefore elled.

The Standard-Union correspondent to-day obtained the bill from the Governor, and found that there were two strong evidences of an attempt to steal the bill through. In the first place, in the engrossed copy the words "three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars," serated out. When bills are sent to the Governor they are always refugrossed if any changes are properly made, and these words being inserted are evidence of crookedness. Then the sum being raised $25,000 over Senator O'Connor's amendment is further evidence of fraud. With the bill, however, is this remarkable statement:

In Senate, May 10 1888, Passed without amendment, by order of the Senate. markable statement:

In Senate, May 10 1888, Passed without amendment by order of the Senate. John S. Kenyon, Clerk. The bill reached the Assembly with this mes-sage in due time, and being so marked it was simply sent to the Governor.

FRIDAT, May 18,

FRIDAY, May 18,

To-day's stock market was a struggling affair, that finally developed into life both as regards activity and prices. The improvement was accomplished with a good deal of difficulty, for the reason that St. Paul, which really led the list in point of activity, was very weak early in the day, and remained heavy even after the rest of the list had attained higher prices. Richmond Terminal common, which was fairly active, also exercised a depressing influence. Various reasons were assigned for the course of the St. Paul stocks, as the preferred was affected even more than the common, but none of them were satisfactory. The usual reports relative to a new issue of securities by the company were exploited, but lacked confirmation. The persistent selling of the stock in the face of the exceedingly good news confirmation. The persistent selling of the stock in the face of the exceedingly good news that came from Chicago this morning to the effect that the Granger roads have agreed to a substantial advance in rates throughout the Northwest on June 4, is more reasonably explained by the assumption that some one has marketed a considerable amount of actual stock. Certainly to-day's selling, except that done by the traders, did not have the appearance of being for short account.

A number of estimates were made as to the value to the Granger roads of the higher rates agreed upon yesterday. But without going into figures it is clear to every reasonable person that the advance cannot but benefit all of them materially. This view was reflected in Northwest and moderately in others of the Granger group. The large purchases of bonds by the Government helped the market somewhat, but the most decided and determining influence was the course of Reading. That stock moved up very rapidly in the last hour and closed with a net gain of about 2 % cent. The larger speculation in it was attended by reports that the 4 % cent, bonds of the new company have been negotiated and that formal announcement of the transaction will be made in a few days. These reports being altogether reasonable and probable had a good deal of effect.

The lew other stocks in which the trading was sufficient to warrant their being described as active were Union Pacific, New England, Northwest and Richmond Terminal. The last named developed a better tone in the late dealings. Now that the stock transfer books are closed for the special meeting something approaching a correct estimate of the relative strength of the oppositing parties can probably be obtained. The closing was sufficient to warrant their being described as active were Union Pacific, New England, Northwest and Stock and Consols, % to 183, Ko 183, K
